Professional Background

Shavit Kramer-Zilberman is the founder, owner, artistic director and chief choreographer at Studio LIFE, a leading center for jazz, dance and performing arts.

2000 - Shavit founded Studio LIFE, which operates two branches in Hod HaSharon and Kfar-Saba. The center offers professional dance training in all areas of jazz, dance and break-dance, for participants aged 3.5 to adult, including discharged soldiers, who perform within diverse large-scale productions and in entertainment groups within events in Israel and abroad.

In 2000, Shavit also established DANCE LIFE, Studio Life's official dance group, which includes 25 professional dancers of both genders, aged 17 - 25. The group quickly gained an excellent reputation both domestically and abroad and is recognized for its impressive ability to combine dance and theater. The group's extensive repertoire includes lively and rhythmical dance sequences incorporating spectacular costumes.

During the last decade, DANCE LIFE took part in numerous projects in Israel and abroad, including numerous Maccabiah Games, festivals and projects in collaboration with various Jewish communities in the U.S., Europe and more.

In addition, Shavit also serves as choreographer for various children video productions such as "Bambino the Wizard", "Julie's Magic", "Super Shine", "Hila's Show", "Gigi Gigonet", "Brio-Lamma's Grocery Store", as well as children theater productions such as "The Jungle Book", "Casper", "Parpar Nehmand", "Where is Pluto" and more.

Shavit also works as a choreographer within larger, more lavish productions such as Elbit's 40th anniversary, the Teachers Union 50th anniversary, two Maccabiah Games (including the opening ceremony). Shavit has choreographed performances for athletes from diverse Jewish communities, a cross-country mobile project, placement of
